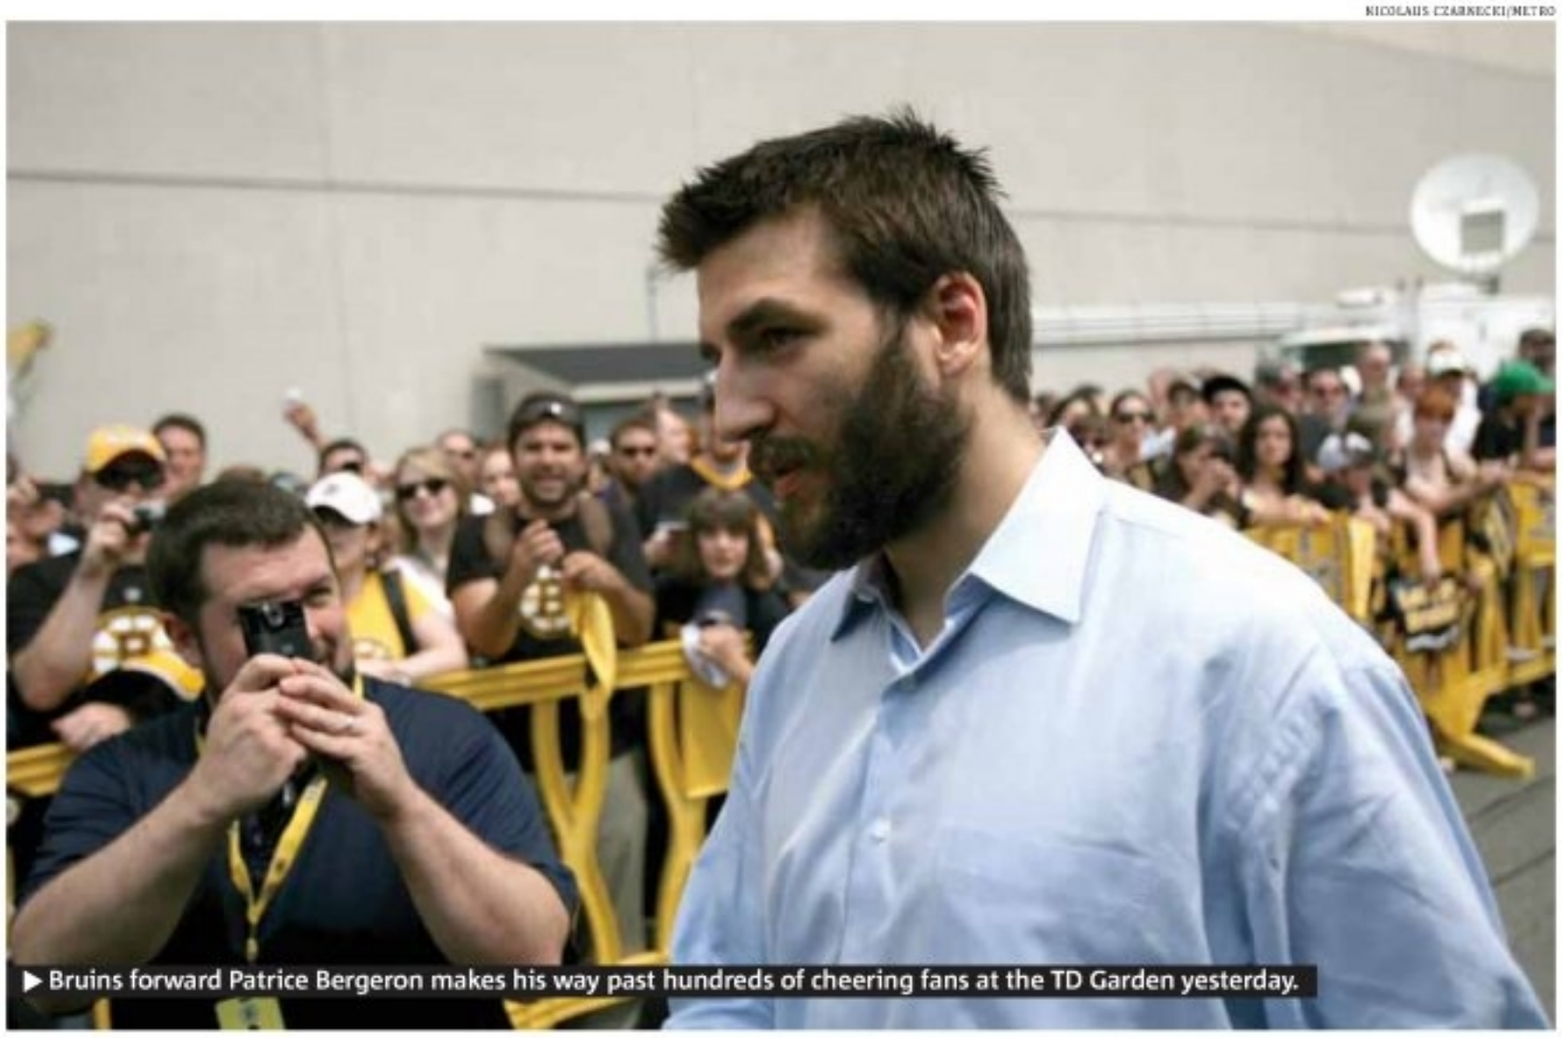
B's fans have fingers crossed

Fans follow rituals to keep the black and gold winning ◗ Superstitious Bruins backers keep consistency, remain repetitive ◗ Supporters wished bearded warriors good luck Thursday as players departed for Vancouver

NICOLAUS CZARNECKI/METRO



▶ Bruins forward Patrice Bergeron makes his way past hundreds of cheering fans at the TD Garden yesterday.

Fans gathered outside the TD Garden to wish the Bruins good luck as they left for Vancouver Thursday debated their role in helping the bearded boys to bring back the Cup.

It's all about the rituals, some supporters said.

Die-hard fan Dan Corrigan sits in the same seat, with the same Tim Thomas Winter Classic jersey on, bearing a Bruins mug filled with two Bud Lights.

"I have done it every game since the playoffs," said Corrigan. "It's worked."

Peabody resident Brett Languirand has his own superstitions.

A consistent high-fiving ritual with buddies brought the Bruins their two top-scoring games this week, he said.

"You just have to high-five the same people in the same exact order every time they score," he said. "We have to do it the whole series."

Even the players themselves have superstitious beliefs, growing out gnarled facial hair for the entire series.

According to Dr. Michael Jenike, professor of psychiatry at Harvard Medical School, there are two classes of people who follow the fanfare; those with superstitious sentiments and those with Obsessive Compulsive Disorder.

"One is normal people who do it because it makes them feel more comfortable or they feel it helps the team's outcome. But in reality, they know it doesn't make a difference," said Jenike. "Others have OCD and they think they manage the impact of a game by doing certain things."

Jenike said OCD affects 2 to 3 percent of people in the world.

"OCD is superstition way out of whack. Most people are a little superstitious about something, sports fans probably in particular," he said. "Wherever certainty exists in the brain ... it doesn't [exist] with OCD. It doesn't come to them. That applies to sports fans as well."

Alleged sex assailant busted

LYNN. A Lynn man was arrested Wednesday and charged with indecently assaulting a woman on the Orange Line.

Mohammed Mwamuye, 32, engaged the 21-year-old woman from Malden in conversation as they rode the train from the Massachusetts Avenue station toward Oak Grove last month, police said.

Mwamuye allegedly put his hand around the woman and several times touched her breast.

Police were able to locate Mwamuye in Lynn Wednesday after identifying him through surveillance video. METRO

Gov. OKs raise for managers

BOSTON. Gov. Deval Patrick authorized 3 percent pay raises for managers in the executive branch for Fiscal Year 2012.

The raise is consistent with what most state unionized employees will receive.

The state's administration and finance secretary said Thursday that the salary increases could cost up to $10 million and that there won't be service impacts. SHNS

Troopers: More of us would save lives

Mass. troopers union urges funding for more state troopers ◗ Rash of struck brethren causes frustration

State Police Trooper Dana Cresta still has nightmares after being hit by a drunken driver on the Massachusetts Turnpike in Newton three years ago.

"A lot of sleepless nights," said Cresta, speaking in front of a wall where pictures of fellow troopers killed in the line of duty hang. The latest photo on the wall is of Sgt. Douglas Weddleton who was hit and killed by an alleged drunken driver last year.

The picture of Trooper Ellen Engelhardt will soon be added after she died earlier this month from injuries she suffered in 2003. She, too, was hit by a drunken driver while in her cruiser.

▶ Trooper Dana Cresta

Cresta and State Police Association of Massachusetts President Rick Brown spoke out Thursday with the hope of preventing more troopers from being added to the wall.

"There has to be something done," Brown said, suggesting the state is bolster its state police ranks.

Since he became union president in 2008, Brown has seen the force drop by about 400 troopers.

The men urged state officials to pass introduced bills that would help fund additional trooper classes to increase the ranks.

Additional troopers would mean more police on the roads to catch impaired, distracted and reckless drivers, Brown said.

Since the start of 2010, 45 troopers have been struck by a vehicle.

Officer, cabbie save jumper

A Boston police officer and a cab driver were credited Thursday with saving the life of a woman who threatened to jump off of the North Washington Street bridge.

Police arrived about 3 a.m. and found that the woman had climbed over a fence barricading the bridge. A cab driver had pulled over and was pleading with her not to jump.

The pair talked with the woman and when she became distracted, the officer was able to pull her to safety.

The woman was taken to a local hospital. METRO

Opinion

TOM FOREMAN
POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT FOR CNN

X MARKS THE RECESSION

My wife is talking about burying money in the backyard again.

I used to think it was just another one of her wacky notions, like taking down the Christmas lights before April or making the bed every day. Now, I've come to see it for what it is: A highly accurate barometer of how bad the economic news has been lately.

"Think about it," she usually says, which is another way of saying she has been doing precisely that for many long hours. "Housing values are a wreck. Banks keep failing. The stock market is schizophrenic. At least if we have a jar full of cash under the azaleas, we'll know it's there."

CNN=POLITICS

Quoted

"All the rosy proclamations from D.C. ... are only making it worse by convincing voters that their leaders are either delusional or deceitful."

The thing is, she's not alone anymore. In a recent CNN/Opinion Research Corporation poll, we found that almost half of the country believes we are likely to fall into another Great Depression in the coming year. (And as a point of information, despite the name it was not so "great.") It didn't matter that our pollsters pointed out the substantial gap between how bad things are now and how bad they were back in the 1930s; the pollees held firm in their prediction.

Part of the problem is plain old erosion. The economic problems that we all hoped would come and go have simply stayed too long — like a college roommate visiting after you get married. High unemployment, home foreclosures and dire predictions about the Chinese coming to take all of our flat-screen TVs have pounded on the American psyche like waves on a sand castle. No surprise then, that when we ask voters what the big issues of the coming election will be, they aren't much interested in talking about gay rights or abortion or any of the hot social issues; everything revolves around the economy.

And I suspect all the rosy proclamations from D.C. — about how we have stabilized, or are improving — are only making it worse, by convincing voters that their leaders are either delusional or deceitful.

Now, if you'll excuse me, I have a date with a shovel. And, by the way, if you're getting any clever ideas, remember: In dire times, digging in another guy's backyard can be dangerous.

Citi hack leads to questions

NEW YORK. Major U.S. banks came under growing pressure from banking regulators to improve the security of customer accounts after Citigroup became the latest victim of a cyber attack.

While Citigroup insisted the breach had been limited, experts called it the largest direct attack on a major U.S. financial institution, and said it could prompt an overhaul of the industry's data security measures. REUTERS

Tax cuts for biz?

Joblessness, exports rise

WASHINGTON. Record exports in April tempered fears that the economic recovery was running off the rails, even though first-time claims for jobless benefits edged higher last week. Girls, elderly spur friendlier gaming

- Video games are no longer just refuge of young males
- As demographics change, so does the violent content

Video games are becoming kinder and gentler as women and older players seek pleasure in a pastime long dominated by teenage boys hell-bent on winning wars in fantasy worlds.

While violent games like "Grand Theft Auto" and "Battlefield" remain top-sellers, relaxing ones designed to induce calm and tranquility are emerging as a major category in an industry often knocked for promoting bad behavior.

"A lot of people who played games in the past have grown up," said Jodi Whitaker, an Ohio State University doctoral student and lead author of a study on the effect of video games on their players.

40+

Hard-core video games can take 40 to 60 hours to complete, along with gobs of adrenaline and a stomach for guts and gore that many older or female players just don't possess.

The shift has come as video-game makers seek out casual players who want a brief diversion on their phones or online, and don't care to invest $250 or more on consoles such as Sony's PlayStation and Microsoft's Xbox.

Nintendo's Wii, cheaper at about $150, has been a major catalyst in changing the game with its focus on fitness, education and community. With 88 million units sold since its debut in 2006, the Wii is now common on cruise ships and retirement homes.

In "Endless Ocean," one of the games in the study, players dive into gentle deep waters to pet sea creatures, explore corals and find buried treasure in a Zen-like experience. "It may be a challenge, but it's not meant to stimulate you," Whitaker said. REUTERS

Do you Groupon? You will ...

NEW YORK. Almost a fifth of U.S. consumers who have never bought a coupon online from Groupon plan to try it in the next six months according to a Bloomberg survey of 1,166 consumers, an indicator of the company's prospects for growth as it plans for an initial public offering.

Meanwhile, 90 percent of respondents who bought a deal on Groupon in the past six months said they plan to do so again, the survey showed.

Groupon has faced skepticism since saying on June 2 that it has yet to make a profit. Its allure to potential investors in a $750 million IPO hinges on attracting new customers and keeping current ones, even as rivals such as Facebook and Google push into the market. BLOOMBERG

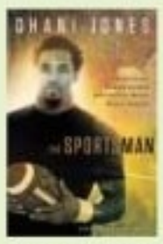
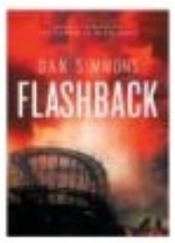
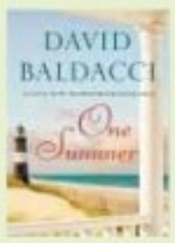
SIZZLING SUMMER READS



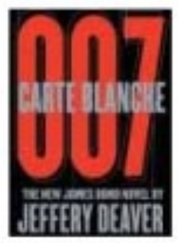
'The Sportsman: Unexpected Lessons from an Around-the-World Sports Odyssey'
Author: Dhani Jones
Release date: June 7
Dhani Jones has done it all — he's an NFL linebacker, the star of Travel Channel's "Dhani Tackles the Globe," a poet, a photographer and a bow-tie entrepreneur — and now he adds writer with his new travelogue/memoir, "The Sportsman."



'Flashback'
Author: Dan Simmons
Release Date: July 1
The creator of the fictional "Hyperion Cantos" universe returns this summer with a thriller set in the near future, where a bankrupt America is dangerously addicted to a drug that allows its population to relive the best moments and memories of the past. Simmons deftly explores how you can lose your future to your past and the inertia that can result from an addiction.



'One Summer'
Author: David Baldacci
Release date: June 14
It wouldn't be summer without a David Baldacci novel, but "One Summer" is a huge departure from his regular shoot-'em-up thrillers. (Don't believe us? Check out the lighthouse on the cover of the book jacket.) Set on the oceanfront in South Carolina, "One Summer" presents a moving story about family — no gunfire involved.



'Carte Blanche'
Author: Jeffery Deaver
Release date: June 14
The Ian Fleming estate picked best-selling author Jeffery Deaver ("The Bone Collector") to carry on the 007 lineage. And in his first work as the anointed Bond chronicler, "Carte Blanche," Deaver updates Bond to be an Afghan war vet with gadgets galore working for a super-secret, post-9/11 organization. But don't worry — this "new" Bond still gets the ladies.

'The Next Wave: On the Hunt for Al Qaeda's American Recruits'
Author: Catherine Herridge
Release date: June 12
Here's a truly terrifying beach read: We've finally nabbed Osama; but as author and Fox News reporter Herridge claims, the next wave of terrorists aren't coming from some far away foreign country — they're being born and raised right here in the U.S.

Super hot off the press

Our summer-reading list spans from James Bond to dragons to Jaycee Lee Dugard ◗ These are such good reads, you might forget to reapply sunscreen

MORE SUMMER READING: WWW.METRO.US/BOOKS

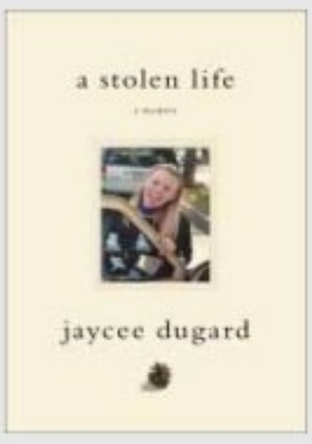
'Dominance: A Novel'
Author: Will Lavender
Release date: July 5
Former literature professor Richard Aldiss decides, via a night class broadcast from his jail cell, to find the murderer of two of his former graduate students — a crime he was convicted of 12 years ago. But then, one of his new students is killed in the same manner as the previous victims.

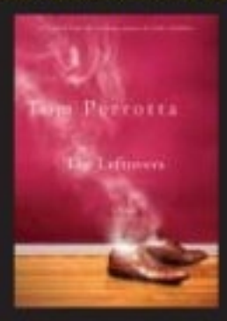
From perennial summer favorites (David Baldacci, Jennifer Weiner), to a touch of fantasy (Kelley Armstrong, George R.R. Martin), to books made much more frightening because they're true (Kevin Mitnick, Jaycee Dugard), we've got the perfect picks for your beach bag.

DOROTHY ROBINSON
dorothy.robinson@metro.us



'A Stolen Life: A Memoir'
Author: Jaycee Dugard
Release date: July 12
Jaycee Lee Dugard needs no introduction. Even the People magazine news articles about her, which only lightly touch on her 18 years in captivity by Phillip and Nancy Garrido, read like gripping thrillers. So this, a detailed memoir of her ordeal, will be one can't-miss summer read.

Rapture, take 2



'The Leftovers'
Author: Tom Perrotta
Release date: Aug. 30
"The Leftovers" takes Perrotta into darker, more Don DeLillo-esque territory. It imagines if the rapture truly did happen, if one day — poof! — more than 100 people inexplicably disappeared from the quiet town of Mapleton. Named "The Sudden Departure," the event forever transforms the remaining residents in dramatic, revolutionary (and, since this is Perrotta, tragically amusing) ways.

Yep, it's 'Super' all right

- 'Super 8' hits all the right spots
- But try to dial down expectations for Abrams-Spielberg collaboration

'Super 8'
Director: J.J. Abrams
Cast: Elle Fanning, Kyle Chandler, Ron Eldard
Rating: PG-13
Grade: ●●●●◐

There might be such a thing as too much anticipation when it comes to a big summer blockbuster. Any film nerd out there can tell you that J.J. Abrams' first directorial project since 2008's "Star Trek" has been gossiped about for more than two years with minitrailers and spoiler details hitting the Internet in drips and dribbles.

The buildup has become so great, that if "Super 8" is anything less than mind-blowing, it would be considered a disappointment.

Thankfully, Abrams delivers. It's clearly a pastiche of Spielberg films, but that's what makes it the modern classic we all so badly wanted it to be. It's as quintessentially American as ye olde melting pot. Abrams borrows from "The Goonies" — the central characters are some junior high kids trying to film their own zombie movie — and some of Spielberg's greatest sci-fi hits, such as"E.T." and "Close Encounters of the Third Kind."

At the center of the story is Joe Lamb (Joel Courtney), a sheepish young boy mourning his mother after a tragic steel mill accident in suburban Ohio. During the summer of 1979, he and his friends unwittingly film a tragic train accident. When the U.S. military show up to handle the aftermath, questions start getting asked and the boys suspect something more sinister at play.

As far as a "classic" film, this one hits all the bases. There's the budding romance between Joe Lamb and his crush Alice Dainard (played by Elle Fanning), there's the father-son bond between Joe and his deputy police officer dad (played by "Friday Night Lights" actor Kyle Chandler) and then of course, there is that central mystery that pulls it all together.

"Super 8" hits all the marks. But if you've been dying to see this film since 2009, you might be a little more excited than the film merits. It is, after all, fitting a particular mold that is very recognizable and traditional in format. In terms of the central mystery of the film, there is a bit left to be desired in terms of its complexity. But this movie is meant to be a whole meal, not just the side dish.

The (really) wacky aunt

Former roller-girl Heather Graham relates to her role in the new kids movie 'Judy Moody'
She wonders, 'How do I live my life as a work of art?'

SUZANNE TENNER

For Heather Graham, taking on the role of oddball Aunt Opal, a guerilla artist and world traveler in "Judy Moody and the NOT Bummer Summer," was something of a no-brainer. In fact, Graham and Opal tend to view the world in a similar fashion.

"I've definitely done that. And I've definitely had the philosophy of 'How do I live my life as a work of art?' Like, 'How do I get the most joy and pleasure out of every day and just appreciate everything?'" Graham says.

Life philosophies aside, Graham was just excited to get into Aunt Opal's eclectic clothes — many of which made their way home with her. "The wardrobe designer was so amazing — I loved her," Graham says. "Everything she had, I just felt like I was going crazy, like, 'I want this so bad when the movie's over.' So then I kept a lot of it."

"It's really fun to be around kids and feel like that side of yourself that just wants to have fun."
GRAHAM

Being the "wacky aunt" is a position that wasn't difficult for Graham to relate to either, since she doesn't have any kids of her own but loves spending time with her friends' children.

"You kind of don't have the responsibility, so it's kind of nice," she admits with a laugh. "You get to be there when everyone's having fun, but when people are crying and stuff, you're like, 'OK, you can deal with that.'"

One of the bonuses for Graham of taking on that kind of role was immersing herself in the world of her young co-stars. "It's really fun to be around kids and feel like that side of yourself that just wants to have fun," she says.

Both Esoteric, here, and Slaine, center, are playing for Akrobatik, top.

STEP IT UP

Locals rally around Akrobatik in his time of need
Rapper recovering after heart attack and coma

When hip-hop promoter Ned Wellbery heard that Boston-based rapper Akrobatik suffered a serious heart attack and needed open-heart surgery, throwing a benefit concert for the emcee became "a must." Wellbery, known to most as Leedz of Leedz Edutainment, began corralling the Hub's best acts to put together a get-well bash for the nostalgic mic-ripper.

"He paved the way for a lot of artists in this city," says Wellbery of Akrobatik.

Slaine, Mr. Lif, Esoteric, A Masstapeace, Nabo Rawk and others signed on to perform for their close friend and raise money for his recovery.

"Ak embodies everything an emcee should be: He's responsible when writing, yet ruthless when delivering," says Esoteric. "Hip-hop is fortunate to have him."

Akrobatik has been released from the hospital and is recuperating, says manager Ahmed Ewing.

Slaine, a fellow emcee and Boston icon, says Akro has been offering wisdom and experience to up-and-coming artists for 20 years.

"We all have moments in our lives when we are knocked to the ground," says Slaine. "People should come out and have a good time with us and know that the money is going toward helping out a good guy as he fights his way through a health crisis."

Promoters say all of the proceeds go to Akrobatik.

Junior Boys will be boys

"If we have a song that sounds happy, chances are we're not," says Junior Boys singer Jeremy Greenspan of his band's dance-y sound. That's OK. He's in good company. "A lot of disco has this quality where it's this uplifting music with some dark subtext going on." The Junior Boys bring this juxtaposition to the Middle East Downstairs on Sunday night.

Chef is on a (lobster) roll

First he ran a successful underground lobster roll business from his Brooklyn apartment Now he's the host of a new seafood show on The Cooking Channel How to make Ben Sargent's famed sandwich at home

COOKING CHANNEL

▶ In "Hook, Line & Dinner," Sargent uncovers the secrets and stories of expert fisherman and partakes in their seafood specialties. Watch it Tuesday nights at 10:30 p.m. on the Cooking Channel.

Ben Sargent knows seafood. Not only has he owned hip seafood joints in Brooklyn, but the Boston native is now host of the Cooking Channel's "Hook, Line & Dinner," where Sargent's seafood expertise is reaching a whole new audience. Since it's lobster roll season, we had a special request of Sargent: to share his crustacean secrets. His most important tip? Salt the water.

"Think about it," he says. "That lobster grows up in salt water. To then boil out everything that's in your lobster in the final step of its life is sacrilege. So think of it as putting flavors back into the lobster."

Weekend recipe

Lobster Rolls

Ingredients

- 1 tablespoon whole black peppercorns
- ½ yellow onion
- 3 tablespoons sea salt
- 1 teaspoon seafood seasoning (Old Bay, for example)
- 4 lobsters, 1 to 1½ pounds each
- 1 tablespoon mayonnaise
- 1 stick salted butter
- 1 splash of crisp, white wine
- 2 cloves garlic, smashed
- 4 top-loading hot-dog buns (such as Pepperidge Farm Classic Top-Sliced)

Directions

1. Set a large stockpot of water to boil over medium-high heat. Add the peppercorns, onion, sea salt and seafood seasoning. Once the water is boiling, add the lobsters. Cover and cook for eight to 10 minutes. When done, remove the lobsters and run under a blast of cold water. Carefully remove the meat from the shell, saving the juices, and coarsely cut into large chunks (usually, the meat from one lobster is good for one roll). Mix the lobster juices with the mayonnaise; it should be a wet, thin consistency. Lightly toss the meat with the mayonnaise. In a small saucepan over medium heat, melt the butter along with a splash of crisp, white wine and the garlic.
2. Heat a large, flat grill pan or skillet over medium heat. Open the buns, brush the butter mixture on the insides and toast, buttered-side down, until golden brown, about one minute.
3. Place the lobster meat on some foil and gently heat on the grill.
4. Evenly divide the lobster meat among the rolls, brush the meat with some butter mixture and serve in paper boats.

THE WORD

Metro's Dorothy Robinson shares her take on the world of gossip @dorothyatmetro dorothy.robinson@metro.us

The feed ...

Usually, I check in with Hollywood; but on Fridays, I reprint some of the week's best tweets by Word fans. Feel free to join in on the Twitter Word fest by telling me what you think @dorothyatmetro.

This week, I asked followers why Rep. Anthony Weiner is getting so much more heat than Arnold Schwarzenegger. @leelubarsky, @wolfconstable, @aliwill , @ kn8 made me see the light. To round out the week, @travelgirl1971 dug Monday's column, and @thesbp gave me his thoughts on VH1's new series, "Single Ladies."

@leelubarsky
Wiener lied and then backtracked. Arnold came out and admitted it. PR101: Tell the truth from the start, control the story.

@wolfconstable
one is on his way up...serious candidate for NYC mayor, the other on his way out. But what do I know, I still wear briefs.

@aliwill
The puns, obviously!

@ kn8
Visual proof? The slow, teased-out drama of it all?

@travelgirl1971
You didn't let me down today! Enjoyed the @NKOTBSB article in the Metro this morning on way to work!!!

Flo Rida poses for a Florida mug shot

MIAMI BEACH POLICE DEPARTMENT VIA GETTY IMAGES

Flo Rida was arrested very early Thursday morning in Miami Beach after cops noticed the 31-year-old swerving in his red and black 2008 Bugatti (which is valued around $1.7 million). When a police officer began to administer a sobriety test, the rapper admitted, "Officer, I can't do this. I can't walk a straight line. I had a few drinks." And he was correct: His alcohol level was reportedly measured at 0.185. According to the police report, a crowd gathered around his car, asking police that they let Flo Rida off; a few even volunteered to drive him home. Alas, the cops didn't budge — and Flo Rida was charged with a DUI and driving on a suspended license. He was taken to the Miami Beach Police Department, where he was then jailed.

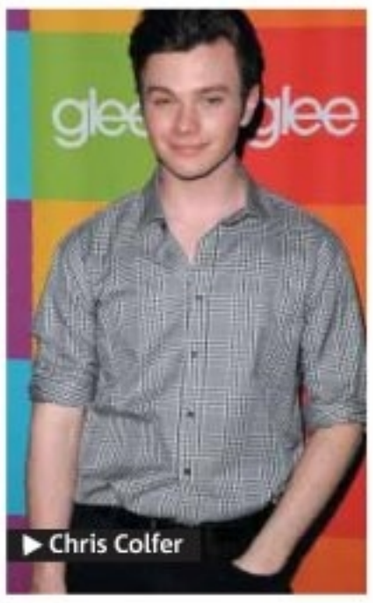
Chris Colfer is a busy man

At 21 years old, Chris Colfer is already an award-winning actor for his work on "Glee." But what he really wants to do is write. Colfer recently signed a two-book deal with Little, Brown Books for Young Readers, according to the Hollywood Reporter, with the first title, "The Land of Stories," set to be released next summer. "When I was 10 years old, I promised myself that if I ever had the opportunity to write this book, I would jump at the chance," Colfer said in a statement. "This book has been at the core of my imagination for a long time and I'm excited and nervous to share it." Colfer is also currently writing a TV pilot for Disney and an independent feature film.



Chris Colfer

You love Oprah. You really love her.

According Nielsen figures, the final episode of "The Oprah Winfrey Show" drew 16.4 million viewers, making it her most-watched show in more than 18 years. That show, "Why I Love Older Women," was watched by 17.3 million viewers. So, all she has to do to get viewers for OWN is produce shows solely about cougars and her retirement.

Talking points

Aniston

Aniston opens up

The usually private Jennifer Aniston has been much more public with her new boyfriend, Justin Theroux. So why the change? "Justin is ready to take their relationship public," a source tells Us Weekly. "She doesn't want him to get frustrated with her usual covert way of doing things." The change in attitude appears to be working, as Theroux was scheduled to head back to New York after last weekend "but they were having so much fun he extended his trip," the source says.

Canalis plans for the future

While George Clooney may have made it pretty clear he's happy to avoid getting married ever again, his girlfriend, Elisabetta Canalis, is singing a different tune. "I am a firm believer in marriage. In the future I will be married, but for the time being I am happy as I am," she tells Italian magazine Chi. "Whenever I see my picture in a magazine, I know what is being written. They all say that I spend my time organizing parties and that my boyfriend does not want to marry me and be with me anymore. My boyfriend has not given an interview on his private life since 1999 — everything that you read is just a rehash of stuff."

Catwoman gives a black eye

Anne Hathaway doesn't find action work daunting, as a stuntman on "The Dark Knight Rises" learned when the actress — who is playing Catwoman — accidentally gave him a black eye, according to the Sun. "Anne got a bit carried away during a fight scene and mistakenly shoved the butt of the gun right into the actor's eye socket," a source says. "He came away with a massive black eye — Anne was mortified."

The Wolf Den, Free
Kevin Eubanks is a jazz guitarist and composer well-known as the leader of The Tonight Show Band with host Jay Leno on NBC. Currently, Eubanks has released his latest effort, "Zen Food." The title is more than a piece of wordplay for Eubanks. "I think it's a wonderful thing to acknowledge music as being food for your soul. The whole idea of it being Zen is that it's a state of 'being,' not an ambition to become something else. It's realizing everyone's fingerprint is unique and expressing that uniqueness with sound, with ideas, with music."

New to the list of bizarre Boston attractions is this museum displaying casts made from molds of the faces of people living and dead. The collection includes Shakespeare, Lenin, Newton, Franklin, Napoleon and more — as well as casts of holocaust survivors. Some of these items may seem dubious (Shakespeare?!) but it's all fascinating and strange.

Day's installation, "Wood to Wave," features huge, downright ghostly black-and-white photographic panoramas of nature that may make you appreciate color anew. Once you're done meditating on nature, Palmquist's exhibition, "Satellite Images," mostly consisting of paintings of urban environments seen from high above, will have you considering humans and the strange, convoluted, fascinating stamp we've made on this planet.

This is a mix tape of humorous readings from some diversely eccentric New England writers. On the menu: dirty limericks, edutainment raps, directions for raccoon meat preparation, D&D-inspired poetry and a narrative by "a woman contemplating the miracle of motherhood from the bottom of a martini." Sure to be more amusing/edifying than either a "serious" reading or a "normal" comedian.

Horoscope

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. If there is someone you know who could use some help, don't hesitate to do what you can for him or her, but save some time just for yourself as well. You have needs, too.
♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. You won't find a better day to try to get in touch with some people you haven't seen much of lately. They'll welcome hearing from you, whether via phone call, e-mail or personal visit.
♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Look for something propitious to happen to you. Whether unexpected or not, you'll derive tremendous personal happiness from it, as well as great benefit.
♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. You can be a surprisingly determined individual once you set your mind on achieving a certain goal. Your aim could be especially good and you should get what you want.
♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Sheer determination will place you in the right spot at the right time, so it behooves you to select a worthy goal, even if it's something that was initiated by another.
♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Circumstances could give you an opportunity to establish a relationship with someone you admire and would like to know better.
♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. You're in an especially good achievement cycle at this time, so it behooves you to establish some meaningful plans for yourself. Don't hold back.
♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. It's one of those days when fortunate things could develop for you, even when it comes to the realm of chance. Don't take any unnecessary gambles but, by the same token, don't hold back either.
♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. This is the day to establish the adjustments that you feel could immensely benefit you or your family. It will be up to you, however, to take the initiative to get things rolling.
♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. Focus on the positive aspects of something you're contemplating doing, instead of dwelling on the negatives. Your outlook is what will reflect the outcome of events.
♈ Aries March 21-April 19. In order to feel good about yourself, it is important that you do something that is both productive and provides you with a real sense of accomplishment.
♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Work hard, but plan some time just for yourself, whether that is having fun with friends or just saving some hours to do whatever you want.

Thomas has B's in position

Overshadowed by offense, goalie on verge of playoff history ● He's just 60 saves shy of the most ever in a postseason ● Canucks looking rattled

GETTY IMAGES

Not since 1978 have the Bruins been within two victories of skating with the Stanley Cup. That was also the last year the B's pitched a shutout in the finals.

Gerry Cheevers blanked Montreal in Game 3 in '78, leading Boston to a series tie after dropping the first two games.

History has virtually repeated itself in 2011, with Tim Thomas doing the honors in a Game 4 victory Wednesday night, pulling the Bruins into a 2-2 series tie, with Game 5 Friday night at Rogers Arena in Vancouver.

Thomas' 38-save gem was his third shutout of the postseason, something only Cheevers (1969) and Cecil Thompson ('29) have accomplished in Bruins history.

And now, with 701 saves, Thomas trails only Vancouver's Kirk McLean in 1994 for most saves in one postseason with 761, a record easily within reach with at least two more games to play.

"I have felt so good in the final so far," Thomas said. "I'm just going to keep doing the same thing that I've been doing to try to have the same success that I've had."

While the offense has certainly propelled the Bruins back into the series with 12 goals in the past two games, Thomas' 78 saves in 79 chances has left the Canucks frustrated — so much so that bad boy Alexandre Burrows took to knocking the stick from Thomas' hands late in the 4-0 loss. Thomas responded by chopping Burrows in the leg.

"I thought I'd give him a little love tap," Thomas said.

"We have to solve Thomas; that's our main thing. Do you have an answer for me?"

Pryor to UFL?
United Football League commish Michael Huyghue is "hopeful" Terrelle Pryor will sign with the league, the UFL told Metro in an exclusive interview.

"We've made it clear through the appropriate channels that we would value Terrelle in our league," Huyghue said. "We feel that the league would add a lot of value to him at the start of his career." METRO

▶ Vigneault

Canucks feeling good?

His team's been embarrassed in two straight games, but Canucks coach Alain Vigneault is refusing to throw in the towel.

"If somebody would have told me at the beginning of the year that we could play for the Stanley Cup, best two-out-of-three series with home-ice advantage in front of our fans, I would have taken those odds," he said. "I would have taken that anytime." METRO

Newton impresses

NFL draft No. 1 pick Cam Newton is impressing his Carolina Panthers teammates at players-only workouts.

"He showed up every day early," linebacker Jon Beason said. "He's working hard. He's interacted well and he's shown some great leadership." METRO

Five Mexican players out

Five players from the Mexican national soccer team are out of the ongoing Gold Cup after testing positive for clenbuterol.

Keeper Guillermo Ochoa, Edgar Duenas, Francisco Rodriguez, Christian Bermudez and Antonio Nelson (Sinha) didn't play Thursday night against Cuba. The tourney ends June 25 in L.A. METRO

It's 'now or never' for LeBron in Finals

The NBA Finals rolled on Thursday night, with LeBron James and the Heat trying to recover from a shocking defeat in Dallas in Game 4.

Before Game 5, James told reporters he knew exactly how much it meant.

"I understand what is at stake," he said. "This is a big game, probably the biggest game of my life. I'm approaching it that way. Not probably, it is."

James was roundly blamed for the series-tying loss, in which he scored just eight points. That's a career playoff low.

Either the Heat or Mavericks will have a chance to put the series away in Game 6 Sunday (8 p.m., ABC). Game 7, if necessary, is scheduled for Tuesday (9 p.m., ABC). METRO

Krstic gone

Celtics C Nenad Krstic has agreed to a two-year deal with CSKA Moscow of the Russian league, GM Danny Ainge said Thursday.

He'll reportedly make $8.8 million over the course of the contract.

Florian moves down and up

Massachusetts native changing weight classes for Saturday's UFC 131 in Vancouver ● He's cutting 10 pounds more than usual ● Beating Nunes could net him a title shot ● Calls recent training 'the best camp of my life'

Given Kenny Florian's reputation as a cerebral competitor, it's probably no surprise the UFC fighter described his cut to the featherweight class as "physics."

Smaller has a tough time stopping bigger. That's the way it goes. And that's part of what Florian wants to exploit in his 145-pound debut Saturday against Diego Nunes at UFC 131 in Vancouver.

The Massachusetts native had fought in the 155-pound lightweight division since 2006.

"[The weight cut] was tough, but I feel good," said Florian, who walks around at 172 pounds. "I'm stronger. I actually put on more muscle at 145 than 155. I feel I'll be one of the strongest and biggest guys in the weight class."

Florian last fought at UFC 118 in Boston last August, losing a lightweight title eliminator to Gary Maynard. The 35-year-old was having trouble scheduling fights against the top contenders at 155, so the UFC's merger with the WEC — and its lighter weight classes — presented a golden opportunity to move down.

After consulting with coaches and nutritionists, Florian decided to make the bigger weight cut to the wide-open featherweight division.

So far, so good there. Florian started dieting earlier than usual to lose the extra weight, and called his training "the best camp of [his] life." A win would likely net him a title shot.

The fight card

The rest of Saturday's main card.

- Junior dos Santos vs. Shane Carwin: Carwin is in for Brock Lesnar, out with diverticulitis.
- Demian Maia vs. Mark Munoz: Are you ready for some jiu jitsu?
- Jon Olav Einemo vs. Dave Herman: Two relative heavyweight newcomers.
- Donald Cerrone vs. Vagner Rocha: A pair of exciting lightweights.

UFC 131

Main event for a title shot

The winner of Saturday's heavyweight main event between Junior dos Santos and Shane Carwin will fight champion Cain Velasquez for the belt in "four to five months," UFC boss Dana White said this week.

Velasquez is currently out of action after undergoing shoulder surgery. But he could be ready to defend his title against dos Santos or Carwin at UFC 136 in Houston on Oct. 8.

Dos Santos is a -175 favorite to win the fight. METRO

Good news for Sox on Pedroia

Red Sox second baseman Dustin Pedroia's nagging right knee injury is nothing serious, and manager Terry Francona doesn't expect him to miss any time.

It was feared the slumping infielder could require surgery on the joint, but his injury is only a bruised kneecap, Comcast's Sean McAdam reported Thursday. He's expected to play Friday at Toronto.

Dr. Tom Gill scoped the knee Thursday.

"There's a difference between having your knee ache or hurt as opposed to maybe putting yourself in a place you don't want to," Francona said Thursday. "We just want to make sure.

"I fully expect he'll be hitting second [Friday]." METRO

Joba likely done for year

Yankees pitcher Joba Chamberlain has a torn ligament in his right elbow, an injury which will likely require Tommy John surgery and a 12-plus-month absence.

The diagnosis came as a shock to the Yanks and the reliever, who had been placed on the 15-day DL with elbow stiffness.

Chamberlain said he wasn't sure how the injury happened.

"I know I can get surgery and get it fixed," he said. METRO
